Exam Preparation - Tutorial Overview

This tutorial program is designed to prepare persons attempting the next Open Cut Examiners Statutory Examination – date to be confirmed.

Aim of tutorials:

- Give practical examples to understand other methods and systems that can be in the exam, but may not be covered in the course content ie draglines, environmental, highwall mining and mining hot spoils
- Exam simulation and exam response analysis (both group and individual)
- Develop examination response techniques

Method:

- Ensuring that students have a comprehensive understanding of the OCE statutory requirements and are prepared for the examination
- Extensive materials will be provided as part of the cost, including specially prepared legislation examination notes and guides
- Tutorial course comprises of ten, four hour sessions once a week leading up to the OCE Statutory Examination
- Further extensive tutorial notes are provided to assist candidates in completing practical questions in the practice sessions, leading to the examination
- Sessions build on skills of how to respond and appropriate response guidance
- By week 4 and 5, there is more information focused on method and systems for full operational understanding as well as exam

What should I expect:

- Candidates will be expected to prepare and present practical examination question answers to the group, each session
- Sessions involve group work as well as individual activities
- Group discussion based on exam responses and case studies/practical examples
- Legislated questions are also revised and completed, during the course

The Pegasus point of difference

- Proven successful completion rates
- Five tutorial sessions of past exams
- Comprehensive eight hour tutorials
- Bespoke content to reflect examination & industry requirements
- Five practice, three hour exams, during the tutorials
- Revision of the last five statutory examinations
- Shortened versions and revision of relevant legislation
- Ongoing Examination and Oral Support by arrangement
- Supply of extensive documentation, including:
  - Open book legislation notes
  - Past exam analysis
  - Past exams and DPI reports
  - Pro forma answers for common practical questions
  - Past legislation questions and answers
  - Past DPI Exam Briefings
  - Extensive Tutorial Notes covering all exam subject matters
